ACQUISORY NEWS CHRONICLE JUNE 2017

ARTICLE

GST – A Brief Outlook

In one of the boldest tax reforms, India rolled out a single tax regime from 1st July 2017. GST has a four-slab tax structure for different goods, ranging from 0-28 per cent. The newly-implemented goods and services tax (GST) will support productivity and boost the long-term growth prospects by unifying direct & indirect taxes reform. GST will improve the ease of doing business, unifying the national market and enhancing India's attractiveness as a foreign investment destination.

By subsuming most of the Central and State taxes into a single tax and by allowing a set-off of prior-stage taxes for the transactions across the entire value chain, it would mitigate the ill effects of cascading, improve competitiveness and improve liquidity of the businesses. While GST is a harbinger of growth, lack of effective infrastructure opens GST up to a series of possible teething troubles in the first few months.

Digital Economy - A New Area in a State of Formation

Digital Economy has the potential to propel societies forward, enable innovative business models and help governments address legitimate policy concerns. The exponential growth in digitization and internet connectivity is the backbone of the Fourth Industrial Revolution.

The aim of the World Economic Forum's System Initiative on Shaping the Future of Digital Economy and Society is to cultivate a shared, trusted digital environment that is a driver of inclusion, economic development and social progress. The System Initiative aims to create networks that enable and encourage action to promote the long-term health and stability of digitally enabled economies and societies.

Ever evolving first fueled by the growing use of personal computing devices, enterprise computing capabilities and Internet access, Digital Economy is now being driven by more advanced digital technologies, namely viz wireless networks, mobile devices, positioning technologies (i.e., GPS), embedded sensors and real-time analytics.

GST – A Brief Outlook

What is GST ?

The long awaited Goods and Services Tax has finally roll out on July 01 2017, ending a swerve of indirect taxes imposed by the Centre as well as respective States and Union Territories till now GST, the single tax rate for products and services will be applicable in any part of the country. The present 17 indirect taxes have been merged into one tax i.e. GST. The taxes that have been merged are – Central Excise duty, Duty of Excise (Medicinal and Toilet preparations), Additional Duties of Excise (Goods of Special Importance), Additional Duties of Excise (Textiles and Textile Products), Additional Duties of Customs (commonly known as CVD), Special Additional Duty of Customs (SAD), Service Tax, Cesses and surcharges insofar as they relate to supply of goods or services, State VAT, Central Sales Tax, Purchase Tax, Luxury Tax, Entry Tax (All forms), Entertainment Tax (except those levied by the local bodies), Taxes on advertisements, Taxes on lotteries, betting and gambling, State cesses and surcharges insofar as they relate to supply of goods or services.

“GST is a single tax on the supply of goods and services, right from the manufacturer to the consumer. Credits of input taxes paid at each stage will be available in the subsequent stage of value addition, which makes GST essentially a tax only on value addition at each stage. ”

The GST will have a big impact on the compliances for trade and industry sector. There will be seamless flow of credit across the value chain. Also there will be removal of cascading effect. The GST has been segregated as Central Goods and Service Tax (CGST), State Goods and Service Tax (SGST) and Integrated Goods and Service Tax (IGST). The prescribed GST rates shall be – 5%, 12%, 18% and 28%. The same has been defined as Destination based tax, the taxable event for GST is supply. It all depend where the supply of Goods or services has taken place and accordingly tax is being charged.

The government has also prescribed a threshold exemption limit – INR 20 lakhs & INR 10 lakhs for special category States & North Eastern States. It's a PAN based registration. The government has provided to deposit taxes by internet banking, NEFT/RTGS, debit card, credit card & over the counter (OTC). The main technology backbone of GST is Goods and Service Tax network (GSTN). It provides IT Infrastructure and services to the Central and State Governments, tax payers and other stakeholders for implementation of the Goods and Service Tax (GST).

GST – A Brief Outlook

Benefits of GST

GST is a win – win situation for the entire country. It brings benefits to all the stakeholders of industry, Government and the consumer. It will lower the cost of goods and services, give a boost to the economy and make the products and services globally competitive. The significant benefits of GST are:

- Creation of unified national market – GST aims to make India a common market with common tax rates and procedures and remove the economic barriers thus paving the way for an integrated economy at the national level.
- Mitigation of ill effects of cascading – By subsuming most of the Central and State taxes into a single tax and by allowing a set-off of prior stage taxes for the transactions across the entire value chain, it would mitigate the ill effects of cascading, improve competitiveness and improve liquidity of the businesses.
- Elimination of multiple taxes and double taxation – GST will subsume majority of existing indirect tax levies both at the Central and State level into one tax i.e. GST which will be leviable uniformly on goods and services. This will make doing business easier and will also tackle the highly disputed issues relating to double taxation of a transaction as both goods and services.
- Boost to 'Make in India' initiative - GST will give a major boost to the 'Make in India' initiative of the Government of India by making goods and services produced in India competitive in the national as well as international market.
- Buoyancy to the Government Revenue – GST is expected to bring buoyancy to the Government Revenue by widening the tax base and improving the taxpayer compliance.

GST – Applicability

The GST shall be applicable where the taxable event arises. The taxable event under GST Act is Supply, which become an integral part of charging the tax. Under the old regime, taxable events for various taxes were different. For example, for excise duty the taxable event is manufacture or production of goods. Similarly, for services the taxable event was provision of service. Under Central Sales Tax (CST) and Value Added Tax (VAT) it was sale of goods. To replace such multiplicity, GST has brought in a single and uniform taxable event, which is, SUPPLY.

Supply term has been very subjectively and inclusively defined in the CGST Act. The types of supply has been clearly recognized under the Act –

- Supply which are made or agreed to be made for a consideration by a person in the course or furtherance of business
- Import of services which are for consideration (whether or not in the course or furtherance of business).
- Schedule I activities (whether or not for consideration) like transfer of goods from principal-agent transaction etc.
- Schedule II activities (activities to be treated as supply of goods or supply of services)

GST – A Brief Outlook

Following few activities are specifically not to be considered as SUPPLY and these are:

1. Schedule III activities which include :

- Services from an employee to employer
- Services by any court or Tribunal
- Functions performed by Member of Parliament etc.
- Services of funeral, burial, crematorium or mortuary
- Sale of land and, Schedule II(5)(b), sale of building
- Actionable claims, other than lottery, betting and gambling

2. Activities or transactions undertaken by the Central Government, a State Government or any local authority in which they are engaged as public authorities, as may be notified by the Government on the recommendations of the Council.

Composite Supply and Mixed Supply

When two or more goods are sold in a combination, it becomes difficult to identify the rate of tax to be levied. For such goods or services, CGST, 2017 has provided with two terms – Composite Supply and Mixed Supply. Composite supply is similar to the concept of “bundled service” as under service tax laws in the existing regime. Both Composite supply and Mixed supply consist of two or more taxable supplies of goods or services or both but the main difference between the two is that Composite supply is naturally bundled i.e., goods or services are usually provided together in normal course of business and cannot be separated. Whereas in Mixed supply, the goods or services can be sold separately. e.g. F&B & hotel room rents

Composition Scheme

Composition Scheme is a scheme which is mainly devised for small taxpayers who find filling of monthly returns both difficult and costly. A registered tax payer under this scheme enjoys benefits like concessional rate of tax and filing of quarterly returns instead of monthly return. To be eligible for registration under Composition scheme it is required that the aggregate turnover of a registered tax payer should not exceed Rs. 50,00,000/- in the preceding financial year.

It is important to note that, registration under this scheme is optional and the registered tax payer whose aggregate turnover is less than Rs. 50,00,000/- can opt not to register for the scheme. A quarterly return in form GSTR-4 is required to be filed within eighteen days after the end of each quarter or part thereof.

Conditions & Restrictions

- A Casual tax payer and a non-resident taxable person cannot register under this scheme
- The registered person under composition scheme is not permitted to collect tax and thus cannot issue a taxable invoice
- Input tax credit is not available
- Tax payers making inter- state supplies or making supplies through ecommerce operators who are required to collect tax at source shall not be eligible for composition scheme

GST – A Brief Outlook

- A person should not be engaged in the supply of services other than supplies referred to in clause (b) of paragraph 6 of Schedule II, to opt for this scheme
- Supplier of goods which are not taxable under the CGST Act/SGST Act/UTGST Act is not eligible to register under this scheme.

Levy and Classification

Under GST regime, the tax shall be levied as Dual GST separately but concurrently by the Union (CGST) as well as the States (including Union Territories with legislatures) (SGST) and Union territories without legislatures (UTGST). The Parliament would have exclusive power to levy GST integrated GST (IGST) on inter-State trade or commerce (including imports) on goods or services or both. Alcohol for human consumption is kept out of the purview of GST. Also, GST on specified petroleum products (crude, high speed diesel, petrol, ATF and natural gas) would be levied from a later date on the recommendation of the GST Council.

Classification

Goods under GST regime, will be classified under, Harmonised System of Nomenclature (HSN) code whereas services will be classified as per the Services Accounting code (SAC). HSN is an internationally standardized system of names and numbers to classify traded products. At present, HSN code is used to classify goods under Value added tax.

Liability for Registration

Section 22 of the Central Goods & Services Tax (CGST) Act, 2017 specifies persons who are liable for registration under GST whereas section 24 of CGST Act, 2017 specifically provides list of persons who are compulsorily required to take registration. A list of such persons liable to obtain registration under CGST Act, 2017 has been summarised as under:

1	Supplier	Supplier of taxable goods and services exceeding the specified threshold limit
2	Licensee	Holder of license under the existing law
3	Transferee	Transfer of business as a going concern which is carried on by a taxable person
4	Transferee under a scheme	Transfer pursuant to sanction of a scheme or an arrangement for amalgamation or demerger of two or more companies
5	Interstate supplier	Persons making any inter state taxable supply
6	Casual Taxable person	Casual taxable person making taxable supply
7	Payer or reverse charge	Persons who are required to pay tax under reverse charge
8	Specific Categories	Persons who are required to pay tax under sub-section (5) of section 9
9	Non-resident	Non – resident taxable persons making taxable supply
10	Deductor of Tax at Source	Persons who are required to deduct tax under section 51, whether or not separately registered under this Act.

GST – A Brief Outlook

11	Supplier on behalf of another person	Persons who make taxable supply of goods or services or both on behalf of other taxable persons whether as an agent or otherwise.
12	Input Service Distributor	Whether or not separately registered under this Act.
13	Supplier through Electronic Commerce Operator	Persons who supply goods or services or both (other than supplies specified under sub-section (5) of section 9), through such electronic commerce operator who is required to collect tax at source under section 52
14	Electronic Commerce Operator	Who owns, operates or manages digital or electronic facility or platform for electronic commerce
15	Supplier of online information	Every person supplying online information and database access or retrieval services from a place outside India to a person in India, other than a registered person
16	Government notified	Such other person or class of persons as may be notified by the Government on the recommendations of the Council

Input Tax Credit

Input Tax Credit (ITC) of CGST and SGST/UTGST will be available throughout the supply chain, but cross utilization of credit and SGST/UTGST will not be possible, i.e. CGST credit cannot be utilized for payment of SGST/UTGST and SGST/UTGST credit cannot be utilized for payment of CGST. However, cross utilization will be allowed between CGST/SGST/UTGST and IGST i.e. credit of IGST can be utilized for the payment of CGST/SGST/UTGST and vice versa.

Since GST is a destination based consumption tax, revenue of SGST will ordinarily accrue to the consuming States. The inter-state supplier in the exporting State will be allowed to set off the available credit of IGST, CGST and SGST/UTGST (in that order) against the IGST payable on interstate supply made by him. The buyer in the importing state will be allowed to avail the credit of IGST paid on inter- state purchases made by him. Thus, unlike the existing scenario where the credit chain breaks in case of inter-state sales on account of non-VATable CST, under GST regime there is seamless credit flow in case of inter-state supplies too.

The revenue of inter-state sale will not accrue to the exporting State and the exporting state and the exporting state will be required to transfer to the Centre the credit the credit of SGST/UTGST used in payment of IGST. The Centre will transfer to the importing State the credit of IGST used in payment of SGST/UTGST. Thus, the inter-State trade of goods and services would need a robust settlement mechanism amongst the State and the Centre. A central agency is needed which can act as a clearing house and verify the claims and inform the respective Governments to transfer the funds. This is possible only with the help of a strong IT infrastructure.

GST – A Brief Outlook

Goods and Services Tax Network (GSTN)

GSTN is a special purpose vehicle which has been set to provide a shared infrastructure and services to Central and State Governments, taxpayers and other stakeholders for implementation of GST. The functions of the GSTN, inter alia include –

- ❖ Facilitating registration;
- ❖ Forwarding the returns to Central and State authorities;
- ❖ Computation and settlement of IGST;
- ❖ Matching of tax payment details with banking network;
- ❖ Providing various MIS reports to the Central and the State Governments based on the taxpayer return information;
- ❖ Providing analysis of taxpayer's profile; and
- ❖ Running the matching engine for matching, reversal and reclaim of input tax credit.

Invoicing under GST

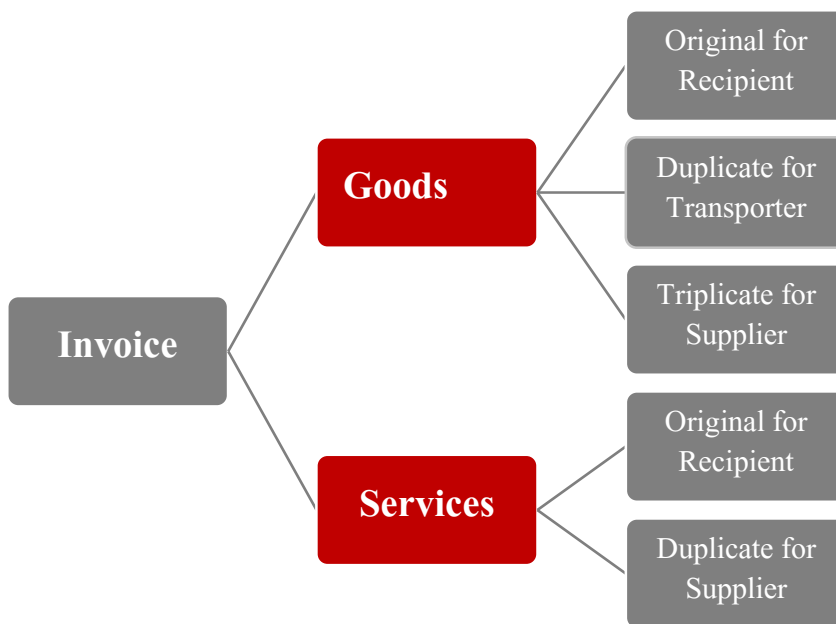

All registered taxpayers are free to design their own invoice format under GST; however, it is required that certain fields as mentioned in the invoice rules be incorporated in all invoices. Some of these fields are as follows:

- name, address and GSTIN of the supplier;
- a consecutive serial number, in one or multiple series,
- date of its issue;
- name, address and GSTIN or UIN, if registered, of the recipient;
- name and address of the recipient and the address of delivery, along with the name of State and its code, if such recipient is un-registered and where the value of taxable supply is fifty thousand rupees or more;
- HSN code of goods or Accounting Code of services;
- description of goods or services;
- quantity in case of goods and unit or Unique Quantity Code thereof;
- total value of supply of goods or services or both;
- taxable value of supply of goods or services or both taking into account discount or abatement, if any;
- rate of tax (central tax, State tax, integrated tax, Union territory tax or cess);
- amount of tax charged in respect of taxable goods or services (central tax, State tax, integrated tax, Union territory tax or cess);
- place of supply along with the name of State, in case of a supply in the course of inter-State trade or commerce;
- address of delivery where the same is different from the place of supply;
- whether the tax is payable on reverse charge basis;
- Signature or digital signature of the supplier or his authorized representative etc.

GST – A Brief Outlook

Invoice under GST shall be issued in the following manner:

Conclusion

GST is expected to serve as a strong antidote to numerous direct and indirect economic ailments, Indian taxation has been struggling with, since independence. It surely seems to be a much simpler and ideal tax net.

Assuming the average rate of GST to be 18%, the consumers at large, have reasons to believe, that for most goods, there would be a significant reduction in the overall costs, while bringing more businesses and tax payers on board.

By subsuming most of the Central and State taxes into a single tax and by allowing a set-off of prior-stage taxes for the transactions across the entire value chain, it would mitigate the ill effects of cascading, improve competitiveness and improve liquidity of the businesses. While GST is a harbinger of growth, lack of effective infrastructure opens GST upto a series of possible teething troubles in the first few months.

Digital Economy- A New area in a State of Formation

Digital Economy Defined

The concept Digital Economy in the recent past has gained a lot of momentum. It has changed the picture of the whole economy and has emerged as one of the main factors for boosting the financial system of any country. People are more relying on the plastic money or e-money where the actual cash is not required and more easily and conveniently people can spend the money. Thus, increasing financial and digital literacy alone will not be enough. Some things are better addressed through regulation. If there are things that are clearly negative for the consumers, then they don't need to exist. The global revolution in mobile communications is creating opportunities to connect poor households to affordable and reliable financial tools through mobile phones, and other digital interfaces.

The digital economy is referred to an economy that is based on digital computing technologies. It is also termed as internet economy. The three main components of the 'Digital Economy' – e business infrastructure, e business and e-commerce. The Internet Economy or Internet of everything is expected to generate new market growth opportunities, jobs and has the potential to become the biggest business opportunity for the mankind in next 30-40 years.

Source- <https://www.manufacturingtomorrow.com/article/2018/12/preparing-to-integrate-iiot/12635>

“Digital economy is about transforming the many facets of business interactions and transactions and also enabling economic innovations. For example, the digital economy both is enabled by and has given rise to the advent of new digital currencies and payment processes, for example Bitcoin and the digital wallets.”

Evolution of Digital Economy

The digital economy is continually evolving. First fueled by the growing use of personal computing devices, enterprise computing capabilities and internet access, it is now being driven by more advanced digital technologies, notably wireless networks, mobile devices, positioning technologies (i.e. GPS), embedded sensors and real time analytics. Economists say the growing use of these technologies, coupled with the increasing use of digital technologies in conventional commercial environments, is blurring the distinction between the digital economy and the traditional one.

However, the digital economy is not simply about moving business transactions from face to face to online. The digital economy is about transforming the many facets of business interactions and transactions and also enabling economic innovations. For example, the digital economy both is enabled and has given rise to the advent of new digital currencies and payment processes, for example Bitcoin and the digital wallets.

Digital Economy- A New area in a State of Formation

Benefits of Digital Economy

There are numerous benefits for digital economy. This has been identified by organizations all over the world including governments of many developed and developing countries, who have made conscious efforts to digitize the economy to improve the efficiency of tedious governmental processes as well as provide convenience to citizens.

It is seen that people around the world rely on mobile communication, internet access and social media for interaction with each other, sharing information and obtaining new knowledge and services, while governments and businesses increasingly prefer the internet for disseminating information, delivering services, communications, marketing and doing business in general. As per the World Development Report 2016, the digital technologies in many instances have boosted growth, expanded opportunities, and improved service delivery. Digital technologies have the power to deeply transform the economy as a whole and across various sectors. It is being observed that the more efficient use of digital technologies is a key driver for a more competitive economy, growth and jobs.

Source- <http://www.oltrepress.com/dac-14enne-salentini-creano-start-banchi-scuola/>

As technologies continue to develop rapidly, so does their user friendliness. Gadgets these days are easy to handle and use superior technologies and software at lower costs. Thus, a digital economy is efficient, cost effective as well as convenient.

Prospects in India

India is currently in the midst of a large effort to modernise its financial services and move individuals into electronic financial space. The year 2017 is an important milestone and will mark the transition from a cash economy to a less cash and a digital economy. Goldman Sachs predicts that India - comprising 15% of the world population, with a growth rate of 7 to 8%, could be the second largest economy by 2030. India's new leadership considers the digital economy as a major growth enabler.

The Department of Electronics & Information Technology of India published Internet of Things policy estimating IoT industry in India grow up to INR 940 billion, by 2020. Focus areas include agriculture, health, water quality, natural disasters, transportation, security, automobile, supply chain management, smart cities, automated metering and monitoring of utilities, waste management, oil and gas.

The Aadhaar innovation is India's singular contribution to accelerating development in the social sector through biometric technology. Lauding it in its World Development Report for 2016, the World Bank said, "A digital identification system such as India's Aadhaar, by overcoming complex information problems, helps willing Governments promote the inclusion of disadvantaged groups."

However, there are several challenges peculiar to India that may constrain a full-scale digital transition in the foreseeable future. On the surface, this transition may not appear to be profoundly deep. But as it pans and plays out, the tectonic shift will have much wider implications and the policy executioners will have to contend with a diversity of exponential societal changes. The race to go digital cannot be turned into a marathon sprint. India culturally believes in cash and a paradigm shift in thinking will need time and resources. It will actually involve a migration to new social and cultural patterns and habits. In a way, it is more of a cultural-economic revolution.

Digital Economy- A New area in a State of Formation

The new revolution will have better chances of success if it is driven less by financial punditry and more by empathetic governance. People take to new technologies when they see clear benefits, have greater confidence in the markets and services, find it convenient and can afford it. The painful reality is that providers too often focus on short-term incentives at the expense of long-term consumer trust and loyalty.

Increasing financial and digital literacy alone will not be enough. Some things are better addressed through regulation. If there are things that are clearly negative for consumers, then they don't need to exist. But changing the financial framework is also not enough. Consumers will have to walk that extra mile if they want to reap the harvest of these new financial tools.

Building inclusive digital economies requires the collective action of Governments, industry, financiers, and civil society. Before speeding ahead, we need to build the infrastructure, align the policies, and create the tools that will enable the poor to comfortably board the digital train.

When we design solutions that recognise all as equal partners, we have a real chance of making it to the goalpost. Each society is at different stages of the digital financial inclusion and the necessary solutions and interventions must be appropriate for the cultural and economic context.

By respecting the cultural outlook of the people and embracing their concerns we enlist their support, and that is what paves the way for lasting and sustainable success.

The drastic digitization over the past few years has indeed affected almost every sphere of our lives. One of the most recent effects has been the move towards a cashless economy in India. Starting with the note ban in November, 2016 due to the sudden withdrawal of the notes of INR 500 and INR 1000 denominations from the economy overnight, the Indian economy had gone cashless, least paper transactions will be involved, substituted by more digital transactions with the help of internet banking, digital wallets, Point-of-sale machines, credit and debit cards etc.

Conclusion

The digital economy is characterized by the digitization of many products and services and by the use of Internet and other networks to support economic activities. Such computerization changes the manner in which business is done and considerably improves economic activities and competition. Digital economy or the internet economy is increasingly influencing our social and economy activities and even the way we live. The internet and its accessory activities including Information and Communication Technologies have given birth to new products, services, jobs, enterprises and even markets.

For a populous country like India, any future strategy for financial inclusion will call for technology to reach the bottom of the pyramid. In essence, the future for digital economy is limitless, and as long as it enhances the way of the global community, it will be a successful economy for decades to come.

MCA UPDATES

9. Ministry of Corporate Affairs issues a notification exempting every person or enterprise who is a party to a combination from giving notice within 30 days for a period of 5 years from the date of publication of the notification; Measure has been taken to alleviate the concerns of stakeholders who felt constrained by 30 days deadline stipulated in the Act for submission of notices of combination to the Competition Commission of India.

The Ministry of Corporate Affairs, in exercise of the powers conferred by clause (a) of Section 54 of the Competition Act, 2002, has issued a notification, in public interest, exempting every person or enterprise who is a party to a combination as referred to in Section 5 of the said Act from giving notice within thirty days mentioned in sub-section (2) of Section 6 of the said Act, subject to the provisions of sub-section (2A) of Section 6 and Section 43A of the said Act, for a period of five years from the date of publication of the notification.

The measure has been taken to alleviate the concerns of stakeholders who felt constrained by the thirty days deadline stipulated in the Act for submission of notices of combination to the Competition Commission of India.

India has a suspensory regime wherein combinations come into effect only after either 210 days have passed from the day on which the notice has been given to the Commission or the Commission has passed orders under Section 31, whichever is earlier. In most jurisdictions with such suspensory regimes, notice of combinations can be given by enterprises to Competition Authorities at their convenient point of time but prior to giving effect to the said combination. With this measure, the combinations regime in India will be in line with the global best practices and enterprises will be free to submit notice of combinations to the Commission at a time convenient to them but prior to giving effect to such combinations. Enterprises are also, as per the notification, mandated to submit the notice in compliance of sub-section (2A) of Section 6 of the Act prior to giving effect to combinations and are liable for penalty, under section 43A of the Act, if they fail to do so.

The measure is in line with the Government's objective of providing Ease of Doing Business in India and is expected to bring about immense relief in cases of combinations covered under the Competition Act, 2002.

8. DGFT – Changes in IEC with the introduction of GST

The Foreign Trade (Development & Regulation) Act, 1992 provides that no person shall make any import or export except under an Importer Exporter Code (IEC) number, granted by the Director General of Foreign Trade or the officer authorized by the Director General in this behalf. As a measure of ease of doing business, it has been decided to keep the identity of an entity uniform across the Ministries/Departments. Henceforth (with the implementation of GST), PAN of an entity will be used for the purpose of IEC, i.e., IEC will be issued by DGFT with the difference that it will be alpha numeric (instead of 10 digit numeric at present) and will be same as PAN of an entity. For new applicants, w.e.f. the notified date, application for IEC will be made to DGFT and applicant's PAN will be authorized as IEC. For residuary categories under Para 2.07 of HBP 201520, the IEC will be either UIN issued by GSTN and authorized by DGFT or any common number to be notified by DGFT. Further, for the existing IEC holders, necessary changes in the system are being carried out by DGFT so that their PAN becomes their IEC. DGFT system will undertake this migration and the existing IEC holders are not required to undertake any additional exercise in this regard. IEC holders are required to quote their PAN (in place of existing IEC) in all their future documentation, w.e.f. the notified date. The legacy data which is based on IEC would be converted into PAN based in due course of time.

10. CBDT provides clarification on Reduced Liability of Tax on complex, building, flat etc. under GST

Ministry of Finance, Central Board of Direct Taxes vide Press Release dated 15th June, 2017 has issued clarification with regard to Tax liability on complex, building, flat etc.

The CBEC and States have received several complaints that in view of the works contract service tax rate under GST at 12% in respect of under construction flats, complex etc, the people who have booked flats and made part payment are being asked to make entire payment before 1st July 2017 or to face higher tax incidence for payment made after 1st July 2017. This is against the GST law. The issue is clarified as below:-

1. Construction of flats, complex, buildings will have a lower incidence of GST as compared to a plethora of central and state indirect taxes suffered by them under the existing regime.

2. Central Excise duty is payable on most construction material @12.5%. It is higher in case of cement. In addition, VAT is also payable on construction material @12.5% to 14.5% in most of the States. In addition, construction material also presently suffer Entry Tax levied by the States. Input Tax Credit of the above taxes is not currently allowed for payment of Service Tax. Credit of these taxes is also not available for payment of VAT on construction of flats etc. under composition scheme. Thus, there is cascading of input taxes on constructed flats, etc.

3. As a result, incidence of Central Excise duty, VAT, Entry Tax, etc. on construction material is also currently borne by the builders, which they pass on to the customers as part of the price charged from them. This is not visible to the customer as it forms a part of the cost of the flat.

4. The current headline rate of service tax on construction of flats, residences, offices etc. is 4.5%. Over and above this, VAT @1% under composition scheme is also charged. The buyer only looks at the headline rate of 5.5%. In other cities/states, where VAT is levied under the composition scheme @2% or above, the headline rate visible to the customer is above 6.5%. What the customer does not see is the embedded taxes on account of cascading and sticking of input taxes in the cost of the flat, etc.

5. This will change under GST. Under GST, full input credit would be available for offsetting the headline rate of 12%. As a result, the input taxes embedded in the flat will not (& should not) form a part of the cost of the flat. The input credits should take care of the headline rate of 12% and it is for this reason that refund of overflow of input tax credits to the builder has been disallowed.

6. The builders are expected to pass on the benefits of lower tax burden under the GST regime to the buyers of property by way of reduced prices/ installments. It is, therefore, advised to all builders / construction companies that in the flats under construction, they should not ask customers to pay higher tax rate on instalments to be received after imposition of GST.

7. Despite this clarity on law position, if any builder resorts to such practice, the same can be deemed to be profiteering under section 171 of GST law.
